

ANNUAL IMPACT REPORT

Looking ahead.

Dear friends, supporters, and partners,

2022 was an exceptional year thanks to you. Our team came out of last year with tremendous momentum, and it is clear that our community's commitment to addressing farm and forest loss and to setting natural lands aside for recreation is growing.

As we celebrate our accomplishments, we are, nevertheless, keenly aware of the complex challenges to land and natural resource conservation. So, we continue on in 2023 without pause.

HLT is doubling down on land conservation with a pipeline of over 800 acres. The team is hard at work on numerous ambitious, costly projects. HLT is also positioning ourselves to be a strong advocate as the county prepares to engage in comprehensive planning and rezoning.

Just last month, HLT added two new board members, Rick Fletcher and Ann Helton, and achieved national recognition as an accredited land trust. This demonstrates our commitment to the future as accredited land trusts save five times more land, attract three times more volunteers, set aside eight times more funds for stewardship and defense, and maintain more financial support.

We do this because IT IS OUR TIME! If we as a community do not come together with a common purpose now, the window of opportunity to save our most precious lands will close.

Without you, none of this is possible. The vital investment that you are making in our community is what fuels land conservation in Harford County. Thanks to people like you who recognize that the time to act is now, we are confident that together we will save the places we love.

Thank you. We are humbled and fortunate to have your support.

A legacy worth leaving.

HLT continues to focus on the conservation of productive farmland and protection of lands important for water quality and biodiversity. Success is measured not just in acres but in overall impact on our community.

We achieve our mission through a combination of land protection and stewardship, advocacy and education, and community and partner engagement.
